Foreword

The 1996 Election Financing Fact Book is the tenth in a series of comparable biennial reports produced since 1978 by the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission, pursuant to the Commission's authority in RCW 42.17.370(3) to publish reports and statistics concerning campaign finance so that the information may be fully disclosed to the public.

Material in this book is based on campaign finance reports filed by candidates and political committees disclosing activity through December 31, 1996. For the most part, these reports have not been audited by PDC staff. Every effort has been made to assure that the data as well as the summary charts and graphs accurately reflect the filed information.

This Fact Book records the political finance activity of the first statewide executive office election to be held since the passage of Initiative 134, the ballot measure approved by voters in 1992 that imposed limits on the amounts contributors may donate to candidates for state office, political parties and legislative caucus committees.

In 1992, 43 candidates sought one of the nine statewide executive offices. They spent a total of $11.3 million. Of this total, the two major party candidates for governor in the general election combined to spend $3.6 million. In 1996, 67 candidates for statewide executive office spent $13.5 million, a 19% increase over 1992. The Democratic and Republican general election candidates for governor spent an aggregate of $4.2 million, a 17% increase.

This Fact Book also depicts the political finance activity of the second regular legislative election held following the implementation of Initiative 134.

The total expenditures by legislative candidates are summarized as follows:

|  |
|--|
| in 1992, 343 candidates spent $13,465,718 |
| in 1994, 316 candidates spent $10,516,508 |
| in 1996, 313 candidates spent $13,064,270 |

The 1996 expenditure total is a 24% increase over the 1994 expenditure level. On average, a winning general election legislative candidate in 1992 spent $68,692, compared to $51,340 in 1994, and $64,702 in 1996. The average general election Democrat spent $56,716 in 1992 and $49,290 in 1996. In contrast, Republican general election legislative candidates averaged $50,439 in 1992 and $59,538 in 1996. For more details, see the section devoted to "The Legislature."

This book primarily profiles statewide executive and legislative candidate campaigns. It includes a descending list of major contributors to these candidates. The reverse directory at the end of the book identifies the significant givers to state office campaigns, those individuals, businesses, unions, PACs and organizations that donated at least an aggregate of $1,000 to legislative or statewide executive office campaigns and were reported as contributors by no fewer than three different candidates.

* The contributions received and expenditures made totals are for calendar year 1994 only; other than possibly carrying forward a 1993 surplus or deficit, no 1993 activity is included.

**The contributions received and expenditures made totals are for calendar year 1996 only; other than possibly carrying forward a 1995 surplus or deficit, no 1995 activity is included. In addition to being a legislative office election year, 1996 was also a statewide executive office election year (meaning that one non-partisan and eight partisan statewide offices, including the governor, were on the ballot).

Note: The totals shown are only for state committees and do not include funds received and spent by party county central committees or legislative district committees.

Independent Expenditures

Independent Expenditures

One of the ways that businesses, unions, organizations and political committees that want to support (or oppose) a legislative or other state office candidate beyond the limited amount they may give directly to candidates is by making "independent expenditures." Independent expenditures usually take the form of political advertising: yard signs, brochures mailed to voters, radio and television ads, etc.

Independent expenditures may not, constitutionally, be subject to any limit. Every citizen's and entity's right to free political speech means that they may spend as much as they choose to support or oppose candidates, so long as those expenditures are made independently of candidates and their campaigns. Expenditures that are made in conjunction with a candidate or candidate's campaign are considered contributions to that candidate. Contributions to legislative and other state office candidates are limited.

Independent expenditures are reported to the Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) in one of two ways, depending on who is making the expenditure.

First, if a non-PAC makes an independent expenditure of at least $100, the spender must file a single page report commonly referred to as the C-6 report. C-6 reports are filed by individuals, businesses, unions and other organizations who are not required to register and report as a political committee, a PAC. These non-PACs use their own funds to make their independent expenditures (that is, they do not undertake any special fund raising effort).

Second, political committees that are registered with PDC report independent expenditures on Schedule A to the C-4 report, as part of their regular, periodic disclosure of expenditures. In 1996, several political committees organized primarily to make independent expenditures, some supporting only one candidate, others promoting the election of a small number of candidates. These committees are referred to as Independent Expenditure Committees.

A few political committees, besides giving contributions to a number of candidates, political party and caucus committees as well as other political committees also make independent expenditures. Their independent expenditure activity may be significant, but it was not a major reason for forming the committee (as is the case with Independent Expenditure Committees). Again, regular political committees disclose their independent expenditures as part of their C-4 reports.

Listed below are the total independent expenditures made according to the three categories of filers identified above. The details on the pages following this introduction show which candidates were supported by the independent expenditures and, for Independent Expenditure Committees, who contributed significant amounts of money to the committee.

| Total Independent Expenditures in 1996 | Amount    |
|---|------------------|
| C-6 Filers                                    | $219,978        |
| Regular Political Committees                  | $ 60,436        |
| Independent Expenditure Committees            | $338,268 |
| Total                                  | $618,682 |
